"CHINESE AND ASIAN AMERICANS"

Speaker: Jerry Wong

In the past two decades, there has been a dramatic rise in the population of Americans of Asian ancestry in the United States and especially in California. Who are these people? What is the composition of this society? Are they old or young? What are their occupations? Income? Poverty levels? What is the make up of the Chinese American population? Finally, what are the projections of the composition of our society in the year 2050?

Don't miss this very interesting and informative presentation and a glimpse of the future.

Our speaker, Mr. Jerry Wong, is an information services specialist with the Los Angeles Regional Office of the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce. His presentation will focus on the demographic trends of Chinese and Asian Pacific Americans. These trends will be identified from the 1990 census through social economic characteristics that have changed over the past ten years. Included will be projections of the Asian Pacific population to the year 2050.
