Author and filmmaker Arthur Dong takes the reader on a guided tour of Chinese American film history, from the hyper-stereotyped portrayals of Chinatown Tong Wars to the exoticized romances starring glamorous actresses like Anna May Wong and Nancy Kwan. He highlights the issues and challenges of Hollywood’s history, including the controversial casting of white actors in Asian roles, known as “yellowface.” Richly detailed and comprehensive in scope, Hollywood Chinese shows how the industry has evolved, beginning with War of the Tongs (1917), billed to white audiences as “planned and executed by the Chinese” and ending with Crazy Rich Asians (2018), the first film with an all-Asian cast in a quarter century.

Throughout the book, Dong unearths hidden gems from film history, documenting the Chinese and Chinese American actors, screenwriters, directors and producers who worked in Hong Kong, Taipei, San Francisco and elsewhere, producing spectacular films in both Chinese and English for global audiences. All but lost to history, those films have been carefully uncovered and presented here. Dong’s narrative is enhanced by extensive interviews with Hollywood actors, directors, and producers, including Ang Lee, Nancy Kwan, Justin Lin, James Hong, Joan Chen, Wayne Wang, and David Henry Hwang, and writer Amy Tan.

President’s Letter

Happy New Year! As 2020 begins, we begin our efforts to encourage our current members to renew and increase our membership. The past year CHSSC was very productive. Once again CHSSC members marched in the Lunar New Year parade, held the 8th annual Yosemite-Singe Peak Pilgrimage, continued our monthly meetings in Chinatown, and conducted walking tours of Chinatown. At the same time our fundraising efforts to improve the Heritage Houses were very successful. Our internship program continues to expand our possibilities of expanding the use of our significant archives and our library.

Our membership levels are Senior/Student, 100x100, Regular, and Diamond. Each of these memberships represents a different level of support. All of these memberships include receiving our News ’N Notes and a Gum Saan Journal. Since the Senior/Student membership fee barely covers our costs, we hope that you will not only renew, but you will consider upgrading your membership level or donating additional funds to CHSSC.

The Life Membership level was discontinued more than 10 years ago. While our current Life Members continue to receive the monthly newsletter, their membership doesn’t include the Gum Saan Journal. Since our 2020 Gum Saan Journal about WWII is very special, think about buying it on our website or at a monthly meeting.

MISSION STATEMENT

The Chinese Historical Society of Southern California was organized in November 1975. The purposes of the Society are:

1. to bring together people with a mutual interest in the important history and historical role of Chinese and Chinese Americans in Southern California;
2. to pursue, preserve, and communicate knowledge of this history; and
3. to promote the heritage of the Chinese and Chinese-Americans community in support of a better appreciation of the rich, multicultural society of the United States.
The 2020 Gum Saan Journal: Remembering WWII By Susie Ling

Gum Saan Journal 2020 is a true gem. It includes 10 first-person stories of World War II soldiers, and 5 stories from women of that era. "The timing is fated," said editor Susie Ling. "2020 is when Chinese American veterans will finally get their Congressional Gold Medal. At the same time, CHSSC had just digitized and archived our Duty and Honor collection from the 1990s. We are so honored to tell of the contributions of Chinese Americans during World War II. Their sacrifices changed the trajectory of our history."

Every story is compelling. The first is about 15th Air Force's Fred Gong, who earned the Distinguished Flying Cross. And there are stories like that of Jay Sue Nin who got shell-shocked while on kitchen duty in Guadalcanal and Solomon Islands. Jim Wah Gee served in the U.S. Navy; he was so impressed with the North American fighters that he became an aeronautical engineer with his G.I. Bill. Marian Lee Leng volunteered for the Chinese Canteen, while Margie was waiting for her Albert Lew to come home safe.

January Outreach

December 12th—Interview by KTLA-TV This past New Year’s Day, local TV station KTLA broadcast its annual coverage of the Rose Parade. Because the parade included a float sponsored by the Chinese American Heritage Foundation which highlighted the role of Chinese American veterans during World War II, KTLA contacted the CHSSC ahead of time to learn more about this history. We referred director Jon Stout to our own Marjorie Lee, project director of the CHSSC’s history gathering effort that led to the production of our 1998 book, Duty and Honor: A Tribute to Chinese American World War II Veterans of Southern California. Marjorie and WWII veteran Hiram Kwan were interviewed by KTLA’s Frank Buckley at Hiram’s law offices, and a 3 minute clip was broadcast by KTLA: https://www.dropbox.com/s/zu84nef709e5gkj/PKG%20206%20CHINESE%20AMERICAN%20MEDAL.mov?dl=0. Thanks to Marji and Hiram for elevating the awareness of our history!

January 14th —Logos Seminary A group of 14 adult students who had convened at Logos Seminary in El Monte was invited to tour Chinatown by instructor Dr. Tim Tseng, Pacific Area Director of Graduate and Faculty Ministries of the Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship. Their goal, as future leaders in communities, was to learn more about Chinatown family issues, and to understand the connections between the Chinese community and surrounding contexts. Eugene Moy led the tour with assistance from new member Howard Wang, a retired college administrator and professor who has previously taught in China, and Yuan-Ning Chu, a Ph.D candidate from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign who is presently a visiting scholar at the USC Korean Studies Institute. We had great interactive dialogue.
January Meeting Recap:
Lynn Choy Narm Uyeda Gin’s Five Names

Lynn Choy Narm Uyeda Gin’s talk about her interesting life included vintage photos of her family, her volunteer work, and her professional career. Lynn was raised in a group home for Chinese girls in Los Gatos, a Bay Area suburb while her mother, an actress, travelled extensively. After moving to Los Angeles, she graduated from Belmont High School in Los Angeles.

As a young mother of 4 boys, Lynn founded her own Public Relations and Marketing Communications firm with offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles. As her boys grew, she actively supported the Chinatown Drum and Bugle Corps for 4 or 5 years as a member of their parent auxiliary group. These parents constantly held fundraising events and chaperoned the corps members when they performed.

In 1974 Lynn co-founded the Asian Business Association where she met many important business owners and politicians. During this time, Lynn became a delegate to the White House conference of business-owners. She started another company, Talking Points, training corporate executives and others on how to give public presentations and appear "On camera" for news media.

In 1999 Lynn retired for the first time. Soon she got recruited by the Department of Commerce to help train people for the 2000 Census. Two years later, she retired again and married Henry Gin. In 2010, she was hired to work on the census in PR.

Lynn retired for the last time in 2012. Now as a Personal Historian, she assists others in documenting their own personal and family histories.

A Friend's Remembrance of Cy Wong
by Ann Lau
at Cy Wong's Celebration of Life on December 14, 2019
at First Baptist Church, 1116 Amulet Street, Natchitoches, LA 71457

“Mr. Wong!” That's how people in Los Angeles Chinatown called Cy. When they share the same last name, they would call each other cousins. My mother was a Wong, so Cy and I could be cousins.

I met Cy when he first joined the Chinese Historical Society of Southern California years ago.

When Cy joined the Historical Society Board, the Society was facing a financial fiasco. A major fundraising had to commence. Cy seek me out as I was one of the founding Board members. I suggested that he approach some of my Chinese-American friends and acquaintances. As a result, most obliged. My strategy being that if Cy as an African-Chinese-American volunteered his time, the least they should do would be to make a donation.

Cy was fearlessly proud of his multi-ethnic heritage, and had a great influence on many of us.

The Historical Society owed Cy a great debt for all his dedicated volunteer works including giving tours of LA Chinatown, fixing the 100 years old houses used as Society headquarters, bringing in new members as Membership Chair, co-chairing fundraisers and more.

In 2000, Cy convinced me to rejoin the board to help move the Board forward. Two years later, in 2002, I in turn convinced Cy to run as the President and I agreed to run as his Vice-President.

As the executive team we bonded as we shared the many challenges, frustrations and triumph in trying to push through changes and improvements within the Society. We successfully converted the Society garage as an archival facility through some major hurdles. Cy's leadership was invaluable.

Our mutual goal was to bring out the contributions of Chinese-Americans to the United States in giving Chinese-Americans a place in our shared history.

We also shared the many milestones of our respective families; Betty’s* work at the schools, Faith going off to college, Faith starting her own business, and Faith getting married. His family was his proudest legacy.

When our daughter's wedding date coincided with Faith's plan for Cy and Betty's 50th wedding anniversary celebration, my husband and I convinced our daughter to move her wedding a week earlier, and she did.

Cy, I know you are up there listening. We thank God for putting you in our path. It was a privilege and an honor to count you as a friend. Thank you for being a part of our lives. Thank you for sharing your wonderful family.

Thank you for making those fried cornmeal cat fish nugget during the Society open houses.

I surely miss those cat fish nuggets.

Yes, Cy, I do miss you as well. With God's mercy and blessings, perhaps we shall be able to continue our friendship up there.

*Author Note: Betty was Cy's wife. Faith is Cy's daughter.

The Making of a Medium: Borrowing Views from Painting and Fiction in Early Modern Chinese Garden Design

S.E. Kile, assistant professor of Chinese literature at the University of Michigan, examines the first two Chinese works that considered garden design as an art: Ji Cheng’s Yuanye (Fashioning Gardens, 1631–34) and Li Yu’s Xianqing ouji (Leisure Notes, 1671). By excavating the garden’s relationship to other art forms, Kile presents an account of the garden as a medium of artistic expression in early modern China. Free, no reservations required.

Chinatown Rising documentary film

Against the backdrop of the Civil Rights Movement of the mid-1960s, a young San Francisco Chinatown resident armed with a 16mm camera and leftover film scraps from a local TV station, turned his lens onto his community. Totaling more than 20,000 feet of film (10 hours), Harry Chuck’s exquisite unreleased footage has captured a divided community’s struggles for self-determination. Chinatown Rising is a documentary film about the Asian-American Movement from the perspective of the young residents on the front lines of their historic neighborhood in transition. Through publicly challenging the conservative views of their elders, their demonstrations and protests of the 1960s-1980s rattled the once quiet streets during the community’s shift in power. Forty-five years later, in intimate interviews these activists recall their roles and experiences in response to the need for social change.
